Congratulations to Gabriel Balmus, a graduate student working in Dr. Weiss’ lab, for passing his A-exam in the Field of Molecular & Integrative Physiology on June 2, 2010!!

Welcome to Dr. Colin Young who joined the Davisson Lab at Cornell-Ithaca on June 15, 2010 as a postdoctoral associate. Colin recently received his PhD in Physiology from the University of Missouri for his thesis work entitled “A Role for Insulin in the Central Control of Sympathetic Nerve Activity in Humans”. In the Davisson Lab, he will utilize functional genomic analyses to unravel molecular mechanisms involved in central neural control of blood pressure.

Aly Spealman Nadworny, graduate student in the Davisson and Kotlikoff Labs, was awarded an American Heart Association 2-Year Predoctoral Fellowship starting July 1, 2010. Her proposal, entitled “C-kit+ cells exhibit a unique redox-related molecular profile that confers stemness and drives differentiation” was one of only 19 applications funded this spring by the AHA Founders Affiliate. Congratulations, Aly!

Administrative Staff in The College of Veterinary Medicine are invited to Administrative Networking Lunches (you bring your lunch - Beverage and Cookies provided). These luncheons are held once a month. The next Administrative Networking Lunch will be August 12, 2010 from 12-1pm in the Hagan Room.

How often have you surveyed a group of people for available meeting times, ... sending emails ... waiting for everyone to get back to you ... only to find out that there are no slots that work and you have to start all over?

The new Outlook Calendar has your solution!!

Scheduling Assistant is faster and more efficient than the old methods of phone calls and lengthy emails! Just open a New Appointment and press the button for the Scheduling Assistant. You can enter the names of all your attendees and even add rooms! Then just select your meeting length and the interactive calendar windows on the right hand side will help you find the most viable day and time!

And, it’s never been easier for your meeting attendees to respond! No more scrolling through days or weeks and typing out lengthy lists of availability—they can simply accept your invitation and the meeting is added right to their calendar! If they can’t make it, they have the option to respond with a note.
